RUN OVER BY A TRAIN?

Man Found by the Tracks Beyond the Coal Chute.

TERRIBLE WOUNDS IN HIS HEAD

He Was Found About Three O'Clock This Morning—Small Chance of Recovery.

Acting on a rumor a Telegram reporter rode out beyond the coal chutes, a half mile, this morning, where he found lying in the home of Albert Griffin one Henry Jackson, supposed to have been run over by a train some time during the early morning. He was lying on a pallet on the floor where he had been placed when found. About half past three this morning Andy Wyrick and John Duckworth, who work at Pomona Nurseries, were going home from the city when they found Jackson

LYING BY THE TRACKS

of the Southern, just in front of Grif-fin's home. A gallon jug, nearly full of whiskey, was setting about six feet away. It was not overturned, but seemed to have been set down carefully. The Telegram reporter examined the ground where Jackson was found. His head, as shown by the blood, had lain squarely against the rail and between the cross-ties. He had bled profusely after the accident.
It is not known whether he was struck by a train coming into or going out of Greensboro, or, indeed, whether he was struck by a train at all. His face was turned toward the south when found and if struck by a train it was probably an incoming one. It is difficult to see, however, how he could have FALLEN SO NEAR

the track if struck squarely. He was probably sitting down on or near the rail. The ground showed no evidences of a struggle having taken place and there was no blood except where the body had lain. This showed clearly that he had not moved after receiving the blow.

HIS WOUNDS

are horrible in appearance. One is on his forehead just above the eye and is several inches long. The most serious one, however, is on the back of the head where the skull is probably fractured. He had bled much after being placed on the pallet. The reporter saw him shortly before eleven o'clock and the blood had not been washed from his face and he had received no medical attention whatever.
He was

BREATHING STERTOROUSLY and was unconscious. It was not known whether he had received any injuries other than those on the head.

Dr. Ledbetter, the county physician, had been called to see him about 7 o'clock this morning and after a cursory examination had ordered him removed to the poor house, as Griffin declined to keep him. While the reporter was at the house a wagon came in which he was to be hauled. The reporter was asked about the matter and gave it as his opinion that if the attempt was made to move him he would die before the poor house was reached.
Thereupon his brother-in-law, Joe Barbee, declined to move him. The reporter returned to the city and phoned Mr. Boren, president of the board of county commissioners, and also saw Dr. Ledbetter, who went to dress his wounds. He had been nine hours without medical attention. Griffin told the reporter that he would care for the man if the county would pay him for the trouble. This is the arrangement that will probably be made. The Telegram had secured a surgeon to attend Jackson at once, but after seeing the county physician, the matter was dropped. Jackson has the appearance of being about 35 years of age. He has been twice married and

HAS ONE CHILD, a little boy who lives with his grandmother at Hill Top, some five miles from Greensboro. His relatives are poor people and are not able to give him proper attention. Dr. Brooks very generously offered to have the sufferer cared for at Astley-Cooper hospital for the bare expenses of the treatment.

JENNINGS' VERSION.

William Jennings, who figured in the Ryan case, says that he was with Jackson last night and that both were drunk. He tried to persuade Jackson to accompany him toward Pomona, but the latter refused and setting his jug down stood still near the main track of the Southern. He left Jackson standing and walked on about 100 yards when he met a train going toward Greensboro. This was about 11 o'clock and was the belated local passenger from the south. He did not see the train strike Jackson and did not see him again last night.

WOUNDS DRESSED.

About two o'clock Drs. Ledbetter and Broadnax went out to dress Jackson's wounds. They claim in explanation of the delay that the patient had not rallied sufficiently to stand the necessary operation. The chances of recovery for the patient are very small.

WORKMEN BLOWN TO ATOMS

Explosion Follows Explosion in Gas Works.

NUMBER KILLED STILL UNKNOWN

Buildings Wrecked For Blocks Around—Ruins Being Searched For Missing Workmen.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Jersey City, Dec. 24.—Explosion followed explosion at the works of the Acetylene Gas Company where one hundred persons were employed at 9:30 this morning. The manufacturers of the gas have been making some experiments, during one of which one of the immense tanks exploded, destroying part of the buildings and setting off explosions of the other tanks. Workmen were blown in all directions and many were injured. The shock was felt throughout the city. The volunteer corps is searching for the missing workmen unaccounted for.
Many of the buildings in the vicinity were wrecked.

All the police could do was to keep back the crowds among whom were the wives of the workmen. Among those in the building at the time of the explosion were Max Grim, Fred Burr, Fritz Epzal, Charles White, Engineer Foller. Grim was blown through a window and his mangled body was picked up several hundred feet away.
Foller who was also killed was found in the ruins. All the rest were seriously injured. The number of missing is unknown.

The Cake Walk.

One of the features of the Carnival next week will be a cake walk. Mrs.
Allen and Mrs. Osborn have this in charge, which is a guarantee that it will be something good. They will be assisted by some of our popular young people who know how to entertain, whether on the stage or in the parlor—it's all one and the same. Don't miss this new and novel feature. It's worth the money.

mann orchestra:

CHRISTMAS ADVICE

may be wasted, as it is only the wise that profit by other people's experience. But we will give it for what it is worth. You will get more real satisfaction, comfort and wear out of one suit of custom tailor-made clothing than you will out of twenty ready-made suits. Why not?
What is a tailor for? To fit every curve, remend every defect of figure, have your collar lay just so, and give you the style of a gentleman. We do it every time.

Facts Worth Studying.

If the Southern Stock-Mutual pays no larger dividends than the 20 per cent. now paid, and the business increases during the next seven years in the same ratio it has increased during the last three years, the actual saving for the ten years to policy-holders in North and South Carolina will be $194,822.00, and to the policy-holders in Greensboro alone, $26,237.00. Besides this the Company's assets (reinsurance reserve and surplus) represented by still larger figures will be kept at home and invested in the state.
What better investment can the public make than by upholding an institution like this?

TO ALL.

Tomorrow being Christmas day no paper will be issued. The force and the staff will observe the day.

The Telegram wishes for all its readers, and all who are not for that matter, that whatever has been brightest and most pleasant in the year now almost gone may culminate in the tomorrow and whatever has pained or worried may drop away as silently and surely as the hours.

It is only fair to assume that Keeper Burns has gladdened the hearts of all his friends with a Christmas tree.

Washington is to have a Curbell bell. This is the strongest possible proof that the Washington authorities anticipate a populist tidal wave in the congressional districts.

An interesting query in orthography that the dictionaries do not settle is: If Mewborne is spelled Mewborne when one is commissioner of agriculture on a salary of $1,800 how will it be spelled when one is superintendent of the penitentiary on a salary of $2,000?

Among the gifts received by the Princess of Wales on her recent birthday was one sent by the German Emperor, showing the Kaiser in British uniform. On the back of it was written a cordial greeting in four lines of original verse.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

This is one case in which matters cannot be bettered by turning the face to the wall.

The present mayor of New York, having failed to secure the necessary number of people to constitute a good, old Irish wake over the passing of Old New York and a welcome committee on the entrance of Greater New York, the Journal has taken the matter in hand. It is to be hoped that the new city will not partake of the qualities of its gratuitous god-father.

Now, boys, take your pencil and paper and figure careful a little.—State Librarian Cobb, in Winston Republican.

Mr. Cobb is proving that there are sixty thousand populists in the state and so want the boys to "figure careful a little." "Figure careful a little," by all means. Also, study grammar carefully and learn to speak and write the English language a little. One of you may get to be state librarian some day, and will need to use the language.

"And let me tell you that if this system of civil service continues, I will not get 19,000 votes next year. Neither will the Republican party in my state present force enough to grease a gimlet to bore a hole to bury ourselves."

The above is an extract from the speech of Hon. Romulus Z. Linney, generally known as the Bull of the Brushies, on the repeal of the civil service law. The expression of the Honorable Romulus is not exactly of classic purity, but he goes to the seat of the difficulty. It is not very apparent how force is to be employed as a lubricator of a perforating instrument, but still the sentence has a ring of the prophetic. We wish Romulus well in the new role.

SATURDAY'S LITERARY CHAT.

[All books and magazines mentioned below may be had at Wharton's book store.]

The December number of The College Message contains a twenty-four page installment of Prof. C. L. Raper's valuable History of Church and Private Schools, which has been mentioned several times by the reviewer. The scope of this work will be somewhat wider than the author had at first expected, and when completed it will contain about 250 pages. This installment finishes with the earlier Presbyterian schools, discusses the early Lutheran schools, the Methodist schools, and the first of the incorporated schools. The discussion of these earlier schools, of which so little is generally known, yet which played so important a part in the making of our history, is clear and full. We shall wait with interest the appearance of the chapters on the great educational institutions of today.

Through the courtesy of Rev. R. W. Weaver, of this city, now a student at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky, a copy of the "Seminary Magazine" has come to the desk. The table of contents shows the magazine possessed of able contributors.

The only January magazine that has found its way through the mazes of Christmas bundles thus far is Scribner's, and it brings one with a shock to a realization of how near at hand is the end of the old year and the beginning of new resolutions. The two most notable features of the magazine are Senator Henry Cabot Lodge's "Story of the Revolution" and Thomas Nelson Page's novel "Red Rock" which is a story of reconstruction days. Both of these will be serial and those who would read them must look out for the January number. Of Thomas Nelson Page's story, it is hardly necessary to speak. He has shown himself so much a master of the poetry and glamour that hang about the old south that the period of the story alone is a sufficient recommendation. It will undoubtedly be one of the literary features of the year. Lloyd Osborne contributes a South sea story out of the experience gained by sojourning there with Stevenson the mighty master of phrase. Bret Harte and De Koven also appear in the number.

Penitentiary convicts must think with sorrow of the exit of Superintendent Smith and the future advent of the strawberry season.

Preparing for a Snowball.

Miss DePhyne Perault is one of the very few actresses who know how to wear and act in boys clothes. She has reached the probable climax of her long list of previous successes in this year's creation of the role of Eddie, the "Infant Terrible," in the farcical comedy, "Lost—A Bride," which is to be presented here next Tuesday, December 28th, at the Academy of Music. Her role is particularly suited to the young actress, who is just such a flippant dare-all in her private conversation as she is as "Eddie," in "Lost—A Bride."

"See the dancing snowflakes!" said another of the "Lost—A Bride" company to Miss Perault the other day, pointing out of the window.

"Yes," quickly retorted the precocious girl. "They are rehearsing for the Snowball, I suppose!"

GOOT HER PRIZE AFTER 40 YEARS.

Mrs. McLellen Won a Bible as a Child and Received It Yesterday.

Easton, Pa., Dec. 23.—In 1857, Miss Mary E. Martin, now Mrs. C. F. McLellen, of 128 North Eleventh street, this city, attended the Reformed Sunday school at Williamsburg, L. I., and for reciting perfectly the Shorter Catechism won a Bible. Her parents moved away before the Bible came and she did not get her prize. Last summer she learned that her teacher of long ago was living in Newark, N. J., and wrote to her. In her first answer her teacher spoke of the Bible incident, which Mrs. McLellen had long forgotten, but which the teacher, Miss Agnes Dunlap, now Mrs. Andrew White, had not. Mrs. White said the Bible would be sent, and today it was received, just forty years after it was awarded.

UP FARMER DUNN'S FLAGSTAFF.

Anderson Makes the Climb to the Highest Point in the City.

Lower Broadway had a sensation yesterday in a wee moving speck of black at the top of Farmer Dunn's flagstaff on the Manhattan Life building. The speck was a full-grown man, and it was the 430 feet of distance from the sidewalk that made him look like a fly.

For some time the halyards which hoist the signal flags to the top of the staff have not been running smoothly, and one of Farmer Dunn's young men found that they were badly worn. William Anderson, of 742 Washington street, a professional steeple climber, was sent for and asked to take the job of putting up new ones. Anderson is 41 years old, and says that he has been up the tallest poles and chimneys in this country, but he hesitated a bit before he undertook this job. He said it was the worst he had ever tackled. Finally he decided to go, and at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning he clambered up to the top, rove the new halyards through the block, and got down without any mishap.

The cap of the dome on which the staff stands is 410 feet above sea level and 380 feet above Broadway. The staff is 50 feet high, and the top of it is the highest point on any building in this city.—New York Sun.
